

so i'm okay now
a few weeks later
paid my hospital bills
to pick up the meds
i went to the pharmacy

Summary Acknowledgment
I have received and understand the patient instructions after visit any part of my condition, emergency, or worsening of my condition, I acknowledge that failure of any responsible authority for any adverse outcome or release all or any applicable, information to the referred physician(s) listed in the after visit summary provided to the patient.

they prescribed me
a rescue inhaler
and steroids for
the inflammation
and told me to schedule a follow-up appointment at a different facility

i don't know what any of this means.

vitals are
okay?
somehow?

good to
know,
i guess?

the patient was so sudden i was a little angry
with myself
was it always supposed to be this easy
to breathe?
to ask for help?

no prior diagnosis of asthma?

they ran their tests
and i seemed (?) alright i mean, other than the obvious then they hooked me up to the nebulizer
and as the mist made its way through my body

Wheezing in adults (English)

..yeah, about that...

umw
is shuttling people because i can't just wait for someone else that i have to advocate for myself the way that cost me $3000 i've learned that day
unpleasant
that's something i've always had trouble was bad enough to to maintain help from others i guess i just didn't think my problem if i had just said something the first time or at least have dealt with it earlier i could have avoided this but i can't shake the feeling that i should have avoided this
