

every last drop

patterns drawn with a dying brush pen

phuji, september 2024

i've always been drawn to zines, but i never knew exactly how i wanted to approach making my own.

i tend to put a lot of pressure on myself to make everything i do profound and insightful, so it freaks me out... and i never actually end up making anything.

yes, it's a bit silly of me.

this zine was a challenge to myself:

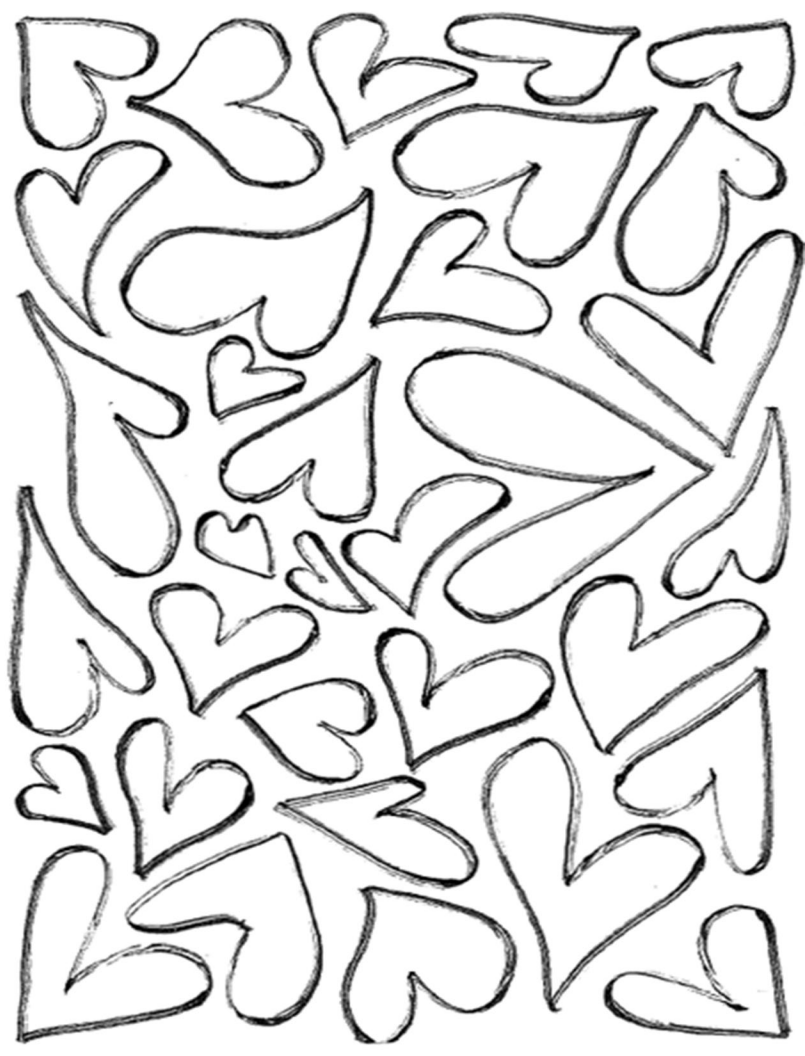

was i capable of making something that purposely didn't have higher meaning?

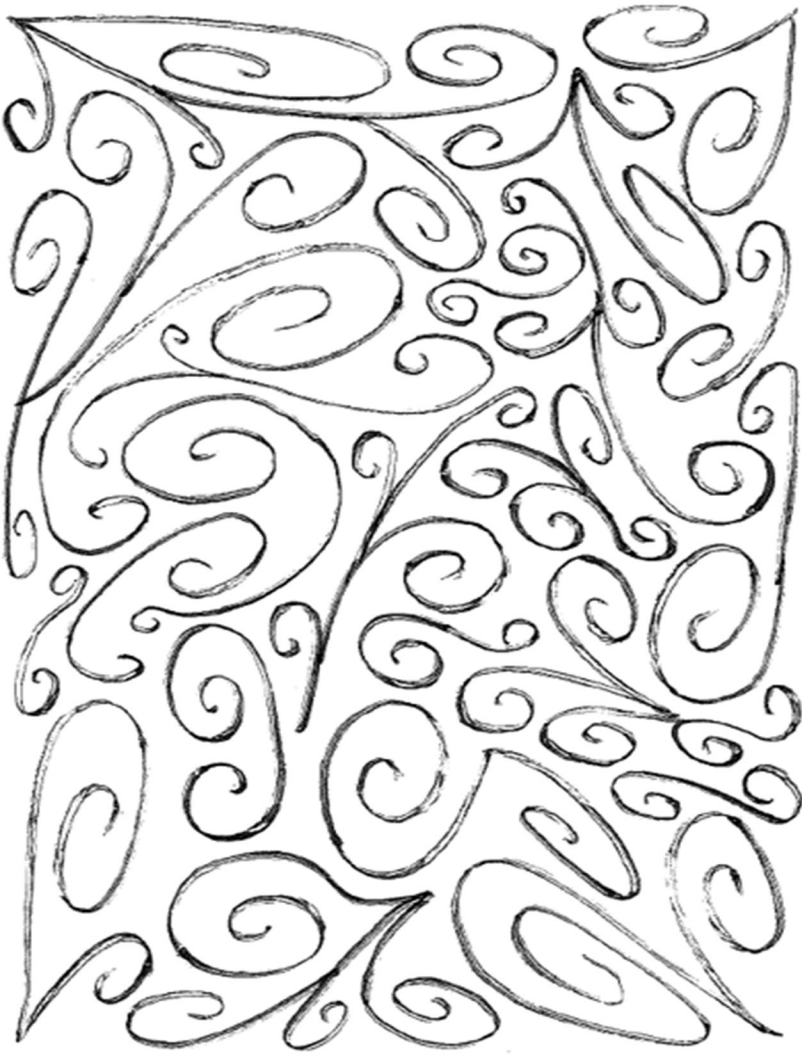

could i make something for no reason?

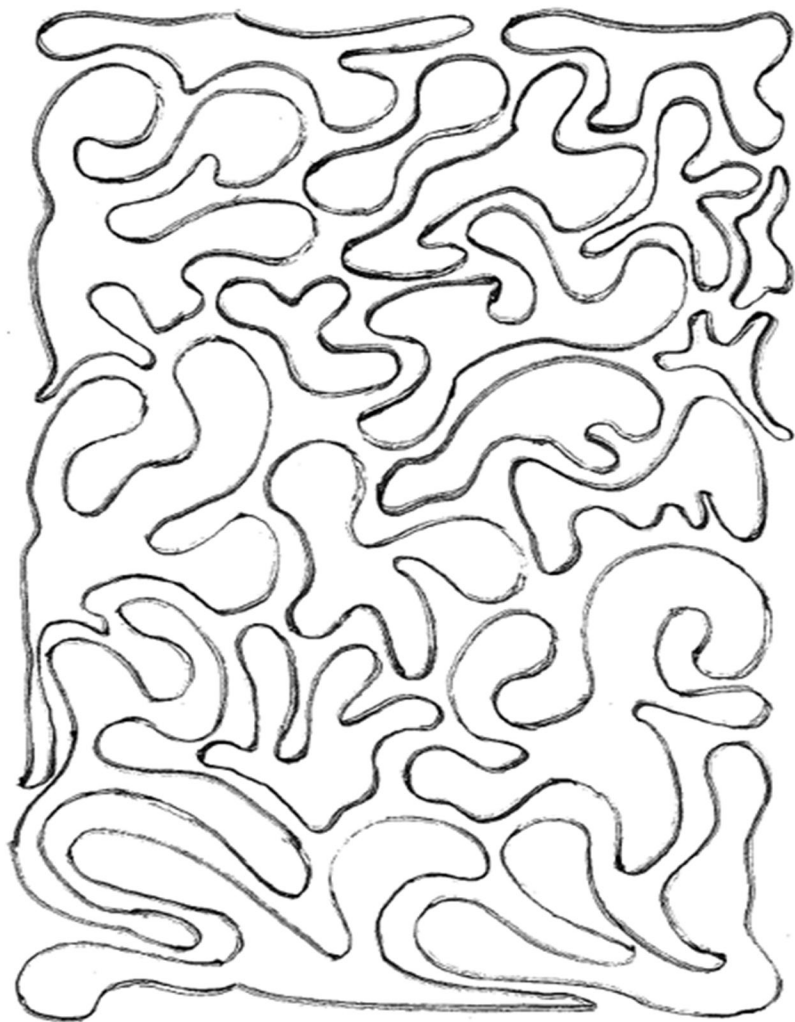

so, if nothing else, i had fun making this.

and i think that's all that matters!

*patterns drawn on printer paper with a dying brush pen that i found while cleaning.
scanned on the work copy machine, formatted and edited on photoshop.*

*special thanks:
the photocopier at work*

september 2024
every last drop
phujiapples.neocities.org